President's Corner:

It's hard to believe that it is nearly a year since California first put in place Covid-19 related restrictions. The first day of the shutdown, the streets of San Diego and our neighborhood were empty. It was eerie. Nobody was going anywhere. Over time we have been learning ways to cope with distancing. Even with the restrictions that have been mandated, the High Country West Club has managed to operate and provide a safe place for us to go and get some recreation, although on a limited basis. I would like to thank the team for their hard work in making sure that we can use the facilities while still being compliant with regulations.

After years of planning, the renovation of picnic Area C at the clubhouse is nearly complete. Hopefully the state and county restrictions will be relaxed soon so that we can all enjoy the upgrades and improvements to this area, together.

Take care,

Kent Stone
