President's Corner:

We're dealing with our own March Madness right here in High Country West! As we finish up some big projects and start on others, Mike and his team are doing a wonderful job leading us through a busy, productive time to improve and enhance our facilities and our community! In other local news, we have lots of committed people working on projects and activities that will benefit all of us – from the launch of Vision Zero, a San Diego-wide campaign focused on getting us to zero traffic-related fatalities and injuries by 2025, to the opening of Lake Hodges for recreational use (on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays for all you kayakers); and the Padres Home Opener on March 26th (maybe this will be our year?). There is definitely something for everyone. If you want to launch a new project, share some important news, or learn about what's going on in your neighborhood, please come to our next HCW board meeting – we need your ideas, your expertise, and your passion, and we want all of our members to be well informed about what's going on at the club and in our community.

Regards,
Julie

Mailbox Policy Update:

The mailbox policy was updated to facilitate the use of lockable mailboxes. A copy of this update was sent by email with this newsletter, or a hard copy with your statement if mailed. We will also update our web site and have a hard copy at the club.

Have you been following the progress on the pool and deck upgrades? The construction people are working hard and we can see the end in sight! The new pool steps are in, the wall and lane line tiles are in, new skimmers, new in pool LED lights, and the biggest is the reconfiguring of the spa air lines so our hot tub should be less noisy. The new deck drains are being installed as we type, with the concrete deck pour following behind, along with the plastering of the pools. Our target date is still mid to the late March. Once we fill the pool it will take some time to bring it to temp and get the water balanced. We can't wait to see you all soon!
